

Danica Lacy

Crash Survivor, Speaker, and Blogger

At the age of 17 Danica experienced a life changing event that vividly illustrated the true responsibility of a teenage driver when she was in a tragic car crash.

With 4 passengers in her car coming home from a late night movie, the combination of distractions and the excessive speed caused her to lose control of the car and crash into a tree. The three passengers in the back seat were ejected, two sustaining major injuries, and the third, Danica's boyfriend, was pronounced dead at the scene.

In an effort to educate teens on the dangers of distracted and reckless driving, and to keep them from making the mistakes she has made, Danica contributes to the What Do You Consider Lethal Blog (<http://whatdoyouconsiderlethal.com/blog>), and tells her story at speaking engagements in high schools in California.
